1. Prices at McCoy's are too expensive, particularly for food and beverages. This is a facility for Soldiers, the prices should reflect that.
2. Prices for camper/cabin rentals at Pineview Campgrounds are too high. Again, Soldiers should receive a significant discount.
3. Policy for reservations at Pineview Campground need serious revisions. Soldiers and their families should be given priority for reservations over civilians. Priority should be; Soldiers, Retirees, Gov't employees, civilians, in that order. This is a HUGE issue with Soldiers.

Fort McCoy does a great job for Soldier's, so no real complaint's. I am a Single/Divorced soldier, and parent. My children live with other parent at a far; 150 mile's away, so I spend alot of time in travel, or at home when with them. So therefore service's provided at Fort McCoy are on a time schedule to use. But my children have enjoyed some service's here at Fort McCoy like the following: Military Vehicle Museum, McCoy dining, AAFES, and ID card service. In final my children have expressed their interest of service's, if were available at Fort McCoy. The service's would be the following: Children's swimming pool/waterpark, Go-kart track, and Remote control toy vehicle track/park. Thanks.

Cabins at Pineview, it's almost impossible to get reservations there. The prices for cabins rentals should be raised drastically for non-military personnel. Military personnel should have priority for cabin reservations then non-military. Those are real nice cabins, and it's real frustrating because you can never get a reservation due to being filled by non-military personnel.

The prices at McCoys are too high for drinks. It's cheaper for me to go off-post then stay on-post at McCoys.

The prices at the PX are too high. I can buy everything cheaper at Walmart.

Ft. McCoy has a great MWR program in general. It fills a considerable void for Soldiers who are stationed here temporarily. The DMWR management staff constantly develops interesting events to engage these Soldiers. I feel very fortunate to have such a great MWR opportunity here for my Soldiers.

We don't have a movie theater, but they do show movies at the Rec Center, which is a dump. They only show movies on the weekends. Show some during the week.

The "crack bar staff" at McCoy's is embarrassing. There are two elderly women tending bar who could care less, even when they are tipped, they have no sense of customer service. When (I think her name is Lucy or something along those lines) is working we have actually traveled to town instead of putting up with her lousy attitude and slow service. The small bar, with 1 good bartender, can run circles around the main bar when the oldies are working. Get these people some training in customer service, tell them to move with a sense of urgency, or get someone who knows how to tend bar. Whether there five people at the bar or 50, the same old pace is applied. Also, when special events are scheduled, have more staff scheduled.

Schedule some night out bus trips to Sparta, Tomah or the local casinos.

A golf course would be great, but I don't see MWR spending that kind of money. What would be cheap and great in the summer would be horse shoe pits behind McCoy's. League play with the outside bar open would replace bowling season.

Consider aikido as a martial art (Army wide). It's an excellent method of self defense as is typically used by many law enforcement agencies to subdue attackers while inflicting minimal damage upon them. Using aikido techniques, a child can escape from or defeat an adult attacker.

Internet access at Ft. McCoy is too restricted, eliminating access to many educational/self-study sites.

Cell phone coverage on Ft. McCoy is poor, with only 2 carriers that can get a decent signal on post.

Bicycle rental is too expensive, and no road bikes are available. For what is being charged, I expect a much better quality bicycle than is currently offered. Could a special rate be established for the soldiers on medical hold that may need to ride a bike as part of their physical therapies?

As a single parent, it is difficult to participate in art type classes that you offer. I would like to, but childcare is limited for me in the neighborhood I live in.

I do not care for the fact the military members have to rent rooms at McCoys. I understand paying for meals, but renting a room? More meeting lunches could be held if the rooms were available free of charge.

In the category where you wanted us to pick the seven important and seven least important...I actually felt that all were inimportant. I live off-post, so the car-wash is not important to me, but for those on-post, it is important. All services need to stay as they give a wide variety of events for all sorts of people.

I would like to see a Burger King on-post as many other installations do.

I would like to see that when we order food at McCoys that we are given a number plaque to take to our table and our order is served to us so we don't have to interrupt conversation to go get our meal. Also, you don't concentrate on your conversation because you are waiting for your number to be called.

I appreciate the veterinary clinics to get immunizations for my animals. Then I do not have to pay for an office visit at a local vet! You didn't have any questions about that in your survey, so I hope you keep the services coming to us from Great Lakes.

The wood shop has out dated equipment and half of it don't work. Have a hard time getting supplies to keep it running. Auto shop is even worst for equipment and repair. Camp ground prices for troops are to high and we have no priorty to use them. McCoy's is to loud, should be a place you can go and drink and just talk. Food at McCoy's is way to high, for the meetings and partys we want to have there. So alot of times we go off post.

The Chily Youth Services program provides an opportunity for our Daughter (who is an Exceptional Family Member child) to participate in interaction with other children which most likely not happen as often if she attended outside the installation after school care. However, as good as the program is it is much to expensive and the monthly rate determination (in my opinion) greatly unfair. To charge a parent for child care based on the parents income seems to be an un-even method of business practice. Lower salary users and higher salary users with one child do not pay the same rate even though the service is the same. If MWR wishes to balance the annual budget I recommend it be accomplished through price increases across the spectrum of services - not by penalizing those who have struggled for years to reach a comfortable pay level. Please considering revising the CYS pay chart so as to make it an equal monthly ammount. As it is now I pay for my child and certainly for someone else' child of a lower pay scale than mine.

In advance, thanks for what CYS does.

Variety, Variety, Variety. The buffet at McCoy's is a joke. It's the same primary thing everyday. I haven't been there in a year, but I can tell you what's for lunch tomorrow. Also, a few more healthy options are needed. I don't know who the MWR Dietian is, but a deep fried, breaded chicken sandwich with french fries is not a healthy option.

I don't use MWR services primarily because the employees treat civilian customers as second class citizens. Why did I have to get off a piece of exercise equipment, just because a military person wanted it and could not wait thier turn. Why could I not reserve a campground space because they where expecting heavy military use one weekend. My money is just as good in town where I get better service.

The PEOPLE at Fort McCoy are what make it great and I truly believe that is why it's one of the best and family-oriented tours for our Soldiers. One of McCoy's hallmarks has always been its great support of outdoor programs and the campgrounds, rental facilities & outdoor opportunities that are available. That said, given the nature of the workforce (approx 82% civilian in support of Soldiers), the lack of any place to get a decent lunch meal in the time allotted is a definite detractor. Since the closing of the "Post Restaurant" some years ago (a private concessionaire who retired, but provided great home-cooked style food at great value, including opening early for breakfast) it's nearly impossible to get a decent lunch in the time allotted on Fort McCoy. The sub-sandwich shop which recently opened as part of the new PX is a slight help to that situation.

However, the choices are The Rustic Inn which is difficult because deploying and redeploying Soldiers often compete for access to that facility and deservedly so; I'm a vet and understand that one doesn't always feel like eating the mess hall. The other choice is McCoy's. Frankly, I refuse to give McCoy's any more of my money because, unless you order the pre-set buffet table that's laid out, you can't get any kind of an 'ala carte' order (even just a burger & fries) in the 30 minutes allotted for lunch. I've personally experienced (repeatedly) during slack counter times when everyone else is eating the buffet put in front of them that it takes 45-50 minutes to get a cheeseburger & fries. It's almost like once the buffet is ready for "the rush" the rest of the kitchen goes on hiatus. That's unacceptable and if it was a private business they would be long-gone by any of a number of local small-town eateries. McCoy's does NOT understand it's daytime customer base. When people do complain, there is the canned statement that "we take seriously your concerns and will pass them on" blah, blah... There is never even an attempt to say we're sorry, here's a coupon for a free burger or some other incentive to ever patronize the place again. I give them a chance once or twice a year now just to see if things have changed. Sadly, I've seen no improvement so am likely to adjust my evaluation to only once a year. The McCoy's operation is the only negative in my mind to an otherwise great MWR program. Just pathetic.

It would be nice if you could have a guest from the area at the Fitness Center. Right now the Fort McCoy fitness center does not allow us to have guests from the immediate area, even when it is not busy. There is a big difference in working out with someone that you trust and works out with you than having a trainer tell you how to use the equipment. Every where else that I have been stationed, you could at least have one guest, no matter where they were from. I miss not having my friend there to push me into exercising or doing more. I have noticed a decrease in my motivation to work out because of this. I doubt this will ever change since a friend of mine brought it to the attention of Fort McCoy MWR and they refuse to change the policy.

I really like the Rumpel fitness center. I believe they could keep it cleaner, especially in the shower areas where it appears to me that the floors need cleaning. It would be nice too if there was an allocation of lockers for Retirees. When I inquired about placing my name on the list for a locker, I was told not to bother because Active military had priority so it was most likely that I would never get a locker. Other than that, I believe the Rumpel fitness center is a very well equipped and appointed area.

I'm not sure if this is the place to complain but on the whole MWR does a great job. The only thing i don't understand is why employees at Fort McCoy are allowed to smoke at the rec center and arts and craft center. I complained about this several times and nothing has been done. The next time i go to the recreation center and i have to wait for the guy in the back room to finish his cigarette to come out and wait on customers renting videos, i will not call the post commander to complain but will call my congressman to find out why fort mccoys can not follow department of the army regulations. Or are they exempt? I don't think so.

I have lived near Fort McCoy for thirty years. It is not really close enough to LaCrosse to use the programs offered. Most of my activities are done in LaCrosse. My kids did learn to ski at the hill there. I have used the Fort when I have drilled there on weekends. I was attached to the 5501st in San Antonio, Texas for the last ten years so my AT was done at Fort Sam. I was also to the NAAD so I did train on weekends with the 452nd CASH. If I lived closer to the Fort I would use the programs for sure, but 45 minutes one way is a lot of time on the road. Thanks for the survey.

Being that I am retired, I have almost lost everything I knew about Ft McCoy. Would like to participate in somethings but not willing to drive with out a good reason.

I live approximately 35 minutes from post and probably the thing that I dislike the most about Fort Mc Coy MWR is that anyone can use the facilities. I take my kids to the ski area and as a Army retiree I feel that I shouldn't have to pay the same prices as a person that just lives in town and wants to come and use the facilities. This is a small post with not a lot of active duty so I know that they have to get revenue from some source (civilians), but the 20 years that I spent on activity should be worth something. They should offer a discount for military and make the civilians pay a higher price.

Most of my answers are based on the distance I am from Fort McCoy (30 minutes)However, there are many who would use the facilities if they were better informed. I never see anything in our local papers or hear anything about special events on our local radio. If money is spent to creat the activities/opportunitites we should spend some to let us know that it's available.

I believe that the MWR is and has been underfunded.

It has good things for everyone but it could be improved through more funding.

During a time when so many of our soldiers are deployed and their families are left behind, I feel that the MWR could do more for the families of our soldiers.
